

Track 1*Station 1, p. 4, ex. 4

Narrator: I am a young Aboriginal woman, and I think that respect is very important for Aboriginal people. Everything is about respect for the land and our community leaders. Nowadays, this respect seems to disappear. Lots of young Aboriginal people don't understand how important our history is. They just want to play computer games, watch American movies, drink and smoke.

I don't think that you have to stay away from the modern world to respect the Aboriginal culture. I'm in a dance group that mixes modern dance with traditional Aboriginal dance. We travel around the country and dance for young people from all areas of Australia. It is a great opportunity for me because a lot of Aboriginal people can't find jobs after school.

There is also a lot of discrimination there towards Aboriginal people. Mostly it is little things, for example people move when I sit next to them on the bus, or I am watched every time I go in to a shop or I hear people telling jokes about Aboriginals and alcohol... It hurts a lot, but it also makes me want to fight against discrimination.

I've also been surprised by how little people know about Aboriginal culture. There aren't many people who listen to us or try to learn about our culture and ask questions. I think more respect for Aboriginal culture is the first step to helping Australia come together more, and this is what we try to do with our dance group.

Track 2*Station 2, p. 7, ex. 4

Barry: Hi, you must be Sonya?

Sonya: Hello, yes, that's me.

Barry: Welcome to the outback! I'm Barry. I'm the assistant manager of the sheep station. If you have any questions or problems, just talk to me. Did you have a good journey?

Sonya: Yes, it was OK, but very hot and long!

Barry: Yes, the distances are huge out here. This station is over 12,000 square miles and we have about 30,000 sheep. The next town is 200 miles away, so if you get ill, we'll have to call the Royal Flying Doctor Service. But you grew up on a farm, didn't you?

Sonya: No, not really! My parents' farm in Melbourne is much smaller and we only have a few cows. But I'm used to getting up very early and to work on a farm.

Barry: That's good. As you know, we expect you to work six days a week here and we work from early morning until it gets dark. So it is hard work but we all work together in a team and we have fun too.

Sonya: OK. What type of work do you need me to do?

Barry: Well, at the moment we are cleaning the buildings and repairing some equipment. Can you drive a car?

Sonya: Yes, I got my driver's licence last year.

Barry: That's good. In a few weeks you will help us with the sheep.

Sonya: That sounds like fun. And where will I sleep?

Track 2

Station 2, p. 7, ex. 4

Barry: There's a group of caravans over here behind the farm house. You'll share one with another girl who arrived last week, Rachel. There's a toilet and shower block just over there too.

Sonya: Great, thank you.

Barry: This is your caravan. If you want to leave your bags and come over to the house, lunch will be ready in half an hour and I can introduce you to the others.

Sonya: OK, thanks.

Track 3*Test practice, p. 18, ex. 1-2

Lauren: My name is Lauren and I live on a farm in the outback with my parents and sister. We are lucky because we live near a small town where there are some other kids. We all use the School of the Air but we often meet to study together. When we aren't at school, we spend most of our time outside. My sister and I help on the farm. It is really dry at the moment so we are worried about the cows. We have to check if they have enough water and trees that can protect them from the sun. We have to be careful about the heat too. I always wear a hat and cover my arms.

I like living here. The families nearby often get together to have barbecues! We have a doctor who comes to town once a week, but if there is an emergency, we have to call the flying doctors.

I can't imagine living in the city, there are too many people and buildings and too much traffic. I want to be a farmer like my parents one day.

Damien: Hi, I'm Damien and I live in Sydney. I find school pretty boring but after school I usually hang out with my friends. My favourite thing to do is to go to the beach and surf. I love surfing and I want to be a real surfer one day.

At the weekend I often go to the city centre with my friends to do some shopping, get a coffee, or maybe try out a new café. Sometimes we have a barbecue or a pool party, or we go to the cinema. Sydney is a really cool place to live. The only thing I hate about life here is all the snakes and spiders we have in the garden. Some of them are really dangerous and I'm scared of them! I was hurt by a snake when I was little and had to go to hospital.

Track 4*Way in, p. 24, ex. 1

Alex: Our reporter Sarah has just come back from a holiday in the Caribbean and is going to tell you more about it. Sarah?

Sarah: Thanks, Alex. Well, I've just come back from a brilliant Caribbean holiday in Jamaica and there was so much more than I expected.

Of course, the beaches were beautiful, with white sand and clear blue water. I spent my first few days after the long flight on the beach. I read a book and went swimming in the sea.

Then in the evenings I enjoyed tasty dinners in a small restaurant on the beach.

After a few days I got a little bored so I did a diving trip where I saw amazing corals and colourful fish. I also tried water skiing, but it was very difficult and I wasn't very good!

I visited Bellefield Great House, which is one of the oldest sugar plantations in Jamaica. The plantation was built in the 17th century and you can take a tour and see the house, the gardens and parts of the old plantation where hundreds of slaves had to work.

I also saw a museum exhibition about slavery. Men and women were taken from Africa to work on the plantations in the Caribbean. The slaves had a terrible life and they only got their freedom in 1838. For me, all the fresh fruit was the best part. I've never tasted pineapples, bananas or coconuts like that from our local supermarket!

There was a Caribbean music and dance evening one night. My holiday in Jamaica was an amazing experience and I hope I can visit some other Caribbean islands soon.

Track 5*Station 1, p. 26, ex. 4

- Man: Good morning. Welcome to Cuba Airways. How can I help you?
- Mum: I'd like to check in, please.
- Man: Where are you flying to today?
- Mum: To Havana.
- Man: Ah yes, the nine o'clock flight. How many people are travelling?
- Mum: Four, two adults and our two children. Here are our passports and tickets.
- Man: Great, Mrs Adams. How many suitcases are you checking in today?
- Mum: Four suitcases, please.
- Man: Please could you put them here so we can weigh them. That's great....Hmmm, this suitcase is a little too heavy.
- Mum: Oh no, I didn't weigh the suitcases at home. Do I have to pay extra?
- Man: I don't think so, Madam. This suitcase here is only 19 kilograms, so if you move some things from this suitcase into this one, both should be under 23. When you have finished, please come back to the desk and I can check you in without a problem.
- Mum: OK, thank you.
- Man: Hello again, Mrs Adams. Let's see if your all cases are under 23 kilograms....fantastic. Can I have your passports and tickets again, please?

Track 5

Station 1, p. 26, ex. 4

Mum: Of course. My daughter Kelly is a vegetarian, can she get a vegetarian meal on the plane?

Man: Yes, of course. Boarding for your flight will begin at 8:30. Here are your boarding passes. Please go to Gate A 24.

Mum: Will we sit together on the plane? My son is a little afraid of flying.

Man: Yes, of course, you will be in seat 28C and your family are next to you. Have a great trip!

Mum: Thank you.

Track 6*Station 2, p. 30, ex. 3

Linda: Hi, I'm Linda. I think family is the most important thing in life. My dad died when I was five years old and life hasn't been easy for our family. My mum had to work really hard to earn enough money. I have two younger brothers and one older sister. My sister and I did all the work around the house because our mum only came home late in the evenings. My sister and I have student jobs now and we give a part of our money to our mum. I hope we will all be able to find good jobs after school and then help our mum so that she doesn't have to work so much anymore.

Tyler: Hi, my name is Tyler and I'm seventeen. For me friendship means everything. I wasn't very happy as a child because my parents fought a lot. I often felt lonely because I don't have any brothers or sisters. But things got better when I was older. I found some very good friends who have always been there for me. I have known my closest friend, Lemar, since I was five years old, he was my neighbour, and we used to play together every day after school. We know everything about each other's lives, and his sister is my girlfriend. He left school and works in a restaurant and I am still at school, but we still share everything. He is the first person I call when I have a problem.

Track 6
Station 2, p. 30, ex. 3

Olivia: Hi, my name is Olivia. I want success in life. I really want to be a writer when I am older. I love writing and taking photos. I already have my own blog about young people in the Caribbean and work on it every weekend. Lots of people read my blog; it inspires them when they see other young Caribbeans with exciting careers and hobbies. I think it is very important to have goals and know what you want. For example, many of my friends want success but don't want to work hard for it. I already know where I want to study, and what grades I'll need to get. I have a plan and nothing will get in my way!

Track 7*Test practice, p. 40, ex. 1-2*Woman: 1.

Ladies and gentlemen travelling on flight BA 364 to Havana, Cuba, could I have your attention please. I am sorry to inform you that there will be a 45 minute delay in boarding today. Boarding will begin at 10:30. Thank you.

2.

This is a gate change announcement for passengers flying on flight number MH395 to London Heathrow. Your new gate number is A45, please make your way there now. Boarding will begin in 30 minutes. Thank you.

3.

Good afternoon. This is an announcement for priority boarding for flight MH 483 to Miami, Florida. Please could any passengers with small children and any passengers who need assistance come forward to board. Thank you.

4.

Good afternoon. We now invite all other passengers for flight UA 613 to New York to board. Please show your boarding pass and open your passport at the photo page. Thank you.

5.

This is a final boarding call for passenger Mr Brendan Miller, travelling on flight BA 159 to Los Angeles. Please go immediately to gate B39. Thank you.

Track 8
Station 1, p. 48, ex. 3

- Lefa: When they took me to the police station, they made me feel like I was guilty of something! They asked me all these questions about what I was doing there, what I saw, my job, even about my family. I didn't know what they thought I had done wrong; they just wrote things down and looked angry. When they finally finished asking me questions, they put me in a room and just left me there all day.
- Cebile: They did the same thing with my mum and me. We had to stay and answer lots of questions all day and weren't even allowed to talk to each other. I felt really scared. But why did they do that to you?
- Lefa: I don't know. I was afraid that I would lose my job because I missed work that day. They didn't even let me make a phone call. But luckily my boss believed me and it was OK.
- Cebile: That's so unfair. I don't think black and white people have the same rights.
- Lefa: Maybe not. I hope that will change. How is your mum?
- Cebile: Not good. She was hurt but we haven't got enough money to go to a doctor. She had just lost her job before the accident happened and now she can't look for another one. We had to leave our home and are now staying with my aunt and uncle.
- Lefa: Will she get in trouble because of the accident?
- Cebile: I guess so. She could go to prison. We are all very worried.
- Lefa: I'm so sorry.
- Cebile: Sometimes at night I think everything was just a nightmare and I'll wake up and everything will be OK. My mum has always been such a wonderful person and she cries every night about all the people who were hurt and the man who died. I'm not sure how our lives will ever be the same again.

Track 9*Station 2, p. 51, ex. 2

Reporter: Our next story is about an amazing animal attack. Michael and Dawn Ellroy, two tourists, who were on holiday in Kruger National Park, saw how a rhino saved a zebra from a crocodile last week. By now their video of the event is everywhere on social media. Dawn and Michael are with us today. Dawn, can you tell us what happened?

Dawn: We went on a safari and were taking photos near a water hole because a lot of animals go there to drink. A large group of zebras came down to have some water when suddenly a crocodile came up from under the water and grabbed one of them by the leg. My husband started filming because it was so amazing and also a bit scary. There was a struggle for a few minutes as the zebra tried to get away and pulled the crocodile onto land. Then the zebra fell and we thought that it was going to die. Then we noticed a rhino, which had been on the other side of the water hole, run over.

Michael: When the rhino got to the crocodile, it put its horn under the crocodile and threw it into the air! The crocodile had to let go of the zebra, which ran back to its group, although we think its leg was broken. The crocodile managed to get back in the water and the rhino stood stamping the ground for a bit before walking away.

Reporter: Since Michael and Dawn posted the video of the attack and rescue on social media, it has already been watched over five million times. Kruger National Park ranger Agnes Oelofse is here to talk to us about the attack. Agnes, what can you tell us about this? Are rhinos really that helpful?

Track 9
Station 2, p. 51, ex. 2

Agnes: I don't really think the rhino was trying to save the zebra. He was probably angry and scared. Rhinos can't see very well and they are quite angry animals so any time they feel there is danger they will run straight in. That is why we always tell people to stay a long way away from them. I also don't think the zebra will survive for very long in the wild with a broken leg.

Reporter: Oh no, I guess we are all sorry to hear that. Thank you for being with us today and enjoy the rest of your holiday.

Track 10*Test practice, p. 62 ex. 1-2

Akani: I'm Akani and I'm from Johannesburg. Actually, I live in the biggest and most famous township in the whole of South Africa. It is called Soweto and it is home to over 1.2 million people. Not only that, but two Nobel Peace Prize winners come from Soweto, Nelson Mandela and Desmond Tutu, in fact they lived on the same street!

People hear a lot of bad things about townships. They hear that they are dirty and not safe. But often people only talk about the negative things, actually I wouldn't like to live anywhere else. Some people in Soweto have lots of money now but still don't leave. Do you want to know why? It's because of the community here. Even though Soweto is huge, in the area where I live everyone knows everyone. In fact, many of them are my family! All my aunties, uncles, cousins, grandparents... we all live within five minutes of each other. We all leave our doors open so we can visit each other, and I play games in the street with my brother, sisters and cousins. My aunty has the best little restaurant in the area and sometimes she gives me dinner in exchange for washing the dishes – her food is the best! My mum has a hairdresser's next door, and we live just behind it.

I have two sisters and a brother. We have an outside toilet, but for water we have to go to the next street and carry it back home. We all hate doing that job! We do have electricity now though, and I hope we can get a TV one day, but for now I watch rugby matches on my uncle's TV.

Of course, some things here really need to be improved. There is also a problem with gangs and guns in the townships. Some of my old friends joined gangs and I don't really see them much anymore. I don't like gangs. I want to be a professional cricket player.

Track 11*Station 1, p. 69, ex. 3

Evelyn: This is Evelyn Chen reporting from the streets of Hong Kong. Last week the police went to a popular market in Hong Kong and took away fake products, which were worth over 10 million Hong Kong Dollars. We've asked people in the city about their opinions of fake products.

Jenny, do you sometimes buy fake products?

Jenny: Yes, I buy quite a lot of fake products really, like bags and shoes. Actually, the bag I'm carrying now is a fake! Most of my friends buy them too. I don't have enough money for the real thing but I like the styles, so I get them in the market. You have to be careful though. Some are really badly made and look very cheap but others are as good as the real thing.

Evelyn: Thanks Jenny. Lee, can you tell us about your experiences with fake products?

Lee: I used to buy some fake things at the markets but they were cheap and not very good. Then I got a TV which after a month just died with a loud noise, so I don't buy fake things any more! I think it's better if you spend a bit more money and buy a good product.

Evelyn: Thanks, Lee. Now Carl, you are from New York and on holiday here in Hong Kong. What's your opinion?

Carl: I never buy fake things. I've heard really bad things about the conditions in the factories where they are made, so I don't feel happy about buying them. I also feel worried about the safety of electronic goods. I'm sure they aren't tested before they are sold, and you can't exchange it if anything goes wrong. If you want luxury products but don't have enough money, then look for second-hand ones. The internet has made it very easy to find some good prices if you look.

Evelyn: Thank you all for being with us today.

Track 12*Station 2, p. 73, ex. 3

Jenny: My name is Jenny and I'm 16. I live in Kowloon, which is in the north of Hong Kong. I think Hong Kong is both a good and bad place for a teenager to live in. I mean, it's a very exciting and international city. My friends and I go to shopping malls and markets, to the cinema and to cafes. It is expensive here though, so a lot of the time we just hang out. People think Hong Kong is full of people and pollution, and a lot of smog, which seems to get worse every year. That is true. But what many people don't know is that only twenty-five per cent of the land in Hong Kong has buildings on it. The rest is just nature, so there are still many places where you can escape the crowded parts of the city. There are beautiful parks where I go hiking with my family on the weekends. In the summer there are beaches where we can swim or have some seafood at a restaurant. If we are lucky, we might even see a dolphin!

My biggest problem with life here is there is not much room. My family- Mum, Dad, Grandma, my sister and me – all live together in a small flat. We have a small kitchen with a living area, a small bathroom and two bedrooms - one for my parents and one for my grandma and my sister and me. We live on the 19th floor of our building. Most of my friends live in homes like ours. Homes are very expensive here. You need millions of dollars to buy a house with a garden! I hope we'll move to a bigger flat one day though, perhaps one with a gym and a swimming pool.

There is a lot of pressure to study hard and get a good job. I get the bus to school at 7 a.m. every morning, and I get home about 5 p.m., and then I have to do homework! I'm studying for my exams at the moment. Maybe I'll go to university in Australia to study to be a doctor, but I'll need good results in my exams!

Track 13*Test practice, p. 82 ex. 1-2

Rika: My name is Rika and I came to live in Hong Kong from my home in Indonesia nearly six months ago. I trained as a teacher before I came but I couldn't find a job in Indonesia so I found an agency that sends workers to other countries for jobs as helpers. They found work for me with a family in Hong Kong. I thought that sounded amazing. Working in such a big, rich city was so different to the life in my small town in Indonesia!

When I got here I was shocked by all the huge skyscrapers. The family I work for lives on the 22nd floor of a building. I had never been up so high before, it was a bit scary! I soon understood that life was going to be hard here and I missed my family.

I work about 16 hours a day. I get up at 6 a.m. to prepare breakfast, and I go to bed about 11 p.m. after I have finished cleaning up after dinner and preparing for the next day. I do all the cooking for the family, all the cleaning and help to look after the children who are three and seven. The agency which found this job for me promised me my own room but actually I just have a bed in the corner of the kitchen.

At first the cooking was very hard. The mother of the family had to show me how to make the food they liked. I am lucky though. I have enough to eat and my family is nice to me. Some of my friends don't get a lot to eat, and their families shout at them or even hit them. I don't make much money, but I can send a little home to my parents. I hope to go home one day and have enough money to move to a city in Indonesia and get a job in a school.

Track 13

Test practice, p. 82 ex. 1-2

Rika: Sunday is my favourite day of the week. This is the day when all the helpers have a day off work. We meet up in the city under a road bridge because we don't have a house or room where we can meet. We eat Indonesian food, sing songs and chat in our language. There are people that can help us if we have any problems with our work. At the moment we are trying to change the law which says we have to live with the families we work for. We are not slaves; we should be treated fairly!