1 Vocabulary bingo

- a) Choose any six words from the list below to make a bingo card. Take turns to choose a word and give a definition for it (but don't say the word). Cross it off your card. Anybody else with the same word can also cross it off. The first person to cross off all six words wins.

guilty	convinced	to mess up	to warn
white lie	pushy	sensible	schoolwork
out of order	doubt	fake	to support to exaggerate	youth	tolerant	to expect
motive	argument	conscience	bit by bit

Useful phrases

It's another word for ... | It's the opposite of ... | You do / need this when ... |
It's a noun / an adjective / a verb which means ... | It's a person who ...

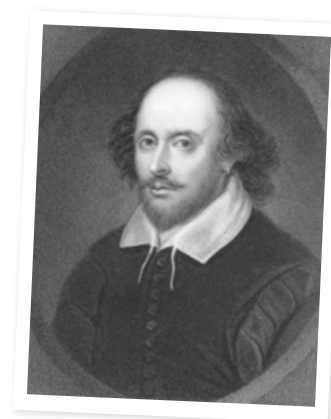

- b) Together, choose another twenty words from the Vocabulary list in your book up to p. 169. Then play the game again.

2 A Shakespeare quote

Below you see a famous quote by William Shakespeare from his play As You Like It.

- a) First, write the quote in German.
b) Explain the meaning of the quote with examples from your own experience.
c) Do you think the quote is a good description of your own life? If yes, say why. If not, think of another saying in English or German to describe your view.

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players;
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts.

merely [mɪəli] nur; bloß ○ exit ['eksɪt] hier: Abgang

3 Angels and devils

Take turns to pick a card and read it out in the voice of an angel or a devil; you decide which voice is needed for each situation. Your partner must find arguments from the other point of view.

Example:

- A: (in a devil voice): If you've messed up, pretend it was somebody else's mistake. They'd do the same to you.
- B: (in an angel voice): No, that's wrong! Everybody should be honest about their mistakes.

It's never a good idea to take risks just for fun.	There's no need to feel guilty when you've done something bad. Forget it, and think about the future instead.	It's never OK to tell lies, not even white lies. When you start lying, it's hard to stop.
It's normal to exaggerate when you tell people about things you've done. As long as it entertains them, it's fine.	Be tolerant of other people's mistakes, and hope they'll be tolerant of yours.	In this life, you need to be pushy, or you'll never get what you want.
If you're tempted to do something you know is wrong, don't do it. If you do, it'll be on your conscience, and you'll feel bad.	You can be sensible when you're an adult. Your youth is a time to have as much fun as you can.	If some friends ask you to do something dishonest, don't do it, and try to convince your friends not to do it.
Let's face it, if you do something good for somebody else, it's because it's good for you too. Nobody is generous all the time; everyone thinks of himself or herself sometimes.	Always do your schoolwork as well as you can. It's very important to do well at school.	It's OK to lie to your parents about the things you've done. They might be shocked if you told them the truth!
