(Look at the story in your book if you need help.)

Opening night is in five weeks. Everybody at school is talking about the school disco and the four friends are happy with their scenery.

“My people look real, don’t they?” Sam asks his friends.

“Look! One woman has got your ears, Lisa!”

“Ha, ha – very funny, Sam!” asks Lisa.

“Last year I want a real part in the play,” says Terry.

“But Terry, the real parts are for Year 9 and parents. You can’t have a part. You’re only in Year 7, now,” Lisa tells him. “Oh, look. There’s Mr Newman.”

“Mrs Carter ... Mrs Carter!” whispers Terry.

“Oh, hello. I’m thinking about the play. An actress is ill and ... well, maybe you can all help,” Mrs Carter says. “Can you come to my house after school? Then I can tell you about the part. I must go to the computer club now. See you later.”
