

Activity 3: Mediation – what do Germans do?

-  What opportunities are available to young Germans for going abroad? A group of US exchange students are visiting your school and have told you about the options available to them. You are now going to put together information for them about the options available to Germans. Go to the website <http://www.initiative-auslandszeit.de/initiative.html> and look at the various possibilities on offer. In pairs, each of you should choose one of the options (try to make sure that you all choose something different) and read about what you can do.
- In class, decide how best to present the information: on a special website, as a poster display, in a presentation, as a video. It's up to you! Once the class has decided how best to do so, prepare your part. Make sure that you make it as interesting as possible and only include relevant information.*
- Share your part of the presentation with the rest of your class. Then invite another class to come and see the whole presentation. Be prepared to answer any questions they might have!*
